The Journals Program at Indiana University Press

Founded in 1950, Indiana University Press is a full-service publisher committed to excellence in the dissemination of academic research and has been working at the forefront of journals publishing since 1987. We are proud to have played an important part in today’s increasingly global dialogue in scholarly communication by providing our readers with access to vital ideas, discoveries, and perspectives.

The Indiana University Press Journals Program features titles from a wide range of subject areas including: legal studies, feminist and American philosophy, Judaism and science, Middle East studies, feminist studies in religion, film, folklore, African American and African studies and literature, electronic services, teaching and learning, modern literature, Victorian studies, transnationalism, early modern cultural studies, and environmental ethics, among others.

Our staff manages all aspects of the editorial workflow, including online article submissions and peer review processes, copyediting, design, and layout. We have partnered with leading online content distributors that extend the reach of our journals worldwide. Regardless of the size of your print run, we provide high quality, four-color digital printing, with full print on demand capabilities.

We provide a complete suite of professional publishing services to our journals partners, including:
- online and traditional distribution
- marketing and promotional campaigns
- intellectual property (IP) management
- print and online advertising sales
- subscription and membership development
- list management and fulfillment
- inventory control and warehousing
- financial record keeping and collections

Contact Michael Regoli, Director of Electronic and Serials Publishing, at regoli@indiana.edu to explore a publishing partnership with the Journals Program at Indiana University Press.

ACPR
African Conflict and Peacebuilding Review
EDITED BY ABU BAKARR BAH, TRICIA REDEKER HEPNER, AND NIKLAS HULTIN
Published semiannually

ACPR: African Conflict and Peacebuilding Review is an interdisciplinary forum for creative and rigorous studies of conflict and peace in Africa, and for discussions among scholars, practitioners, and public intellectuals in Africa, the United States, and other parts of the world. ACPR provides a wide range of theoretical, methodological, and empirical perspectives on the causes of conflicts and peace processes including, among others, cultural practices relating to conflict resolution and peacebuilding, legal and political preventative measures, and the intersection of international, regional, and local interests and conceptions with conflict and peace.

Black Camera
An International Film Journal
EDITED BY MICHAEL T. MARTIN
Published semiannually

Black film studies

Black Camera, a journal of Black film studies, is devoted to the study and documentation of the Black cinematic experience and aims to engender and sustain a formal academic discussion of Black film production. It includes reviews of historical as well as contemporary books and films, researched critiques of recent scholarship on Black film, interviews with accomplished film professionals, and editorials on the development of Black creative culture. Black Camera challenges received and established views and assumptions about the traditions and practices of filmmaking in the African diaspora, where new and longstanding cinematic formations are in play. The journal devotes issues or sections of issues to national cinemas, as well as independent, marginal, or oppositional films and cinematic formations.

History & Memory
Studies in Representation of the Past
EDITED BY JOSÉ BRUNNER
Published semiannually

Historical consciousness and collective memory

History & Memory explores the manifold ways in which the past shapes the present and is shaped by present perceptions. The journal focuses on a wide range of questions relating to the formation of historical consciousness and collective memory, the role of historical memory in modern and premodern cultures, and the relationship between historical research and images of the past in different societies and cultures. History & Memory aims to explore not only official representations of the past in public monuments and commemorations but also the role of oral history and personal narratives, the influence of the new media in shaping historical consciousness, and the renewed relevance of history writing for emerging nations and social conflicts.

Prooftexts
A Journal of Jewish Literary History
EDITED BY BARBARA MANN AND JEREMY DAUBER
Published triannually

Jewish literary studies

For more than thirty years, Prooftexts has provided a forum for the growing field of Jewish literary studies. Integral to its mission is an attempt to bring together the study of modern Jewish literatures (in Hebrew, Yiddish, and European languages) with the literary study of the Jewish classical tradition as a whole. Since its inception, the journal has as much stimulated and created the field of Jewish literary studies as it has reflected its achievements.
